Bullying and Harassment – not on at LPS

Bullying and harassment are matters that we take seriously at our school because it’s our belief that every student has the right to be happy and safe at school. We will not tolerate bullying or harassment. For the victim, bullying has the potential to affect wellbeing, learning potential, emotional and social development and is something that simply does not have to be endured.

For the perpetrator, bullying can lead to the belief that he or she has the right to dominate others (they don’t!) and it can result in patterns or habits of behaviour when dealing with others generally or in certain situations.

As a school, we take prompt and decisive action when incidents are reported in accordance with our Anti Bullying Policy. Sometimes, victims don’t tell us (or anyone) that bullying is happening because they believe that reporting will just make things worse. Experience shows that this is rarely, if ever the case. Bullying must be reported so that it can be stopped – we know that it’s not always easy or possible to drop in to talk about these matters. Email, letters, phone calls and meetings are all appropriate means of communication.

Every student has the right to be happy and safe at LPS.
